主要業績

Teacher motivation: The missing link in motivational studies Published in I published a paper called "Teacher motivation: The missing link in motivational studies in お茶の水女子大学英文学会『研究報告』第一次審査結果.

研究内容 / Research Pursuits

I have been continuing my research into second language writing assessment, collecting further data on the graduation thesis ratings carried on by the English department. I am supervising a visiting scholar from Iran on his doctoral dissertation, and we gave a joint presentation at the JALT Pan-SIG conference held in Matsumoto in May 2011. I was an anonymous reviewer for one paper submitted to the journal "Language Testing". I also served on three dissertation defense committees at Temple University, Japan campus. I published a paper called "Teacher Motivation: The Missing Link in ESL Motivational Studies" in お茶の水女子大学英文学会『研究報告』第一次審査結果.

■ 教育内容 / Educational Pursuits

I am advising two doctoral students, who are researching second language writing acquisition and corpus linguistics respectively. I am also supervising three Master's students and one Chinese research student. I also carry a full teaching load, helping b

■ 研究計画

I will help organize a panel discussion at the annual JALT conference on behalf of the Testing and Evaluation SIG in November 2011. I will continue to my research into differential rater functioning, using data collected from an analysis of the English department ratings of graduation theses. I am also using Rasch analysis to investigate the validity and reliability of a self-developed vocabulary test for English majors studying English composition. I will co-author a paper on rater effects using three different types of rater on a writing assessment of Iranian university students, with a visiting scholar from Iran. At some point, I would also like to create a corpus of learner English, utilizing graduation theses written by Ochanomizu University English majors.

■ メッセージ

This is an exciting time to be studying English as well as other foreign languages. I hope you can experience the joy of learning to speak another language. If you decide to major in English or another language, I want you to be aware that there are so many aspects and areas in the field of language studies, and I'm sure you can find something that will capture your interest.
